Medical necessity of proposed cartilage transplant from left knee to the left talus

Determination

PHMO, Inc. has performed an independent review of the proposed care to determine if the adverse determination was appropriate. After review of all medical records received from both parties involved, the PHMO, Inc. physician reviewer has determined to overturn the denial on the requested service(s).

Summary of Clinical History

Ms. ___ sustained a work related on the job injury on ___, while employed by .

Clinical Rationale

If an osteochondral lesion of the talus persists at this time, surgical intervention is indicated. The last MRI was completed on 08.25.05. This was only a couple months or so after the surgery. This may not have been enough time for healing. However, the other lesion did heal; at least it healed by the MRI. A repeat MRI would be helpful to address the present status. Again, if an osteochondral defect still exists, a surgical procedure in the form of an osteochondral autograft transfer or other articular cartilage repair procedure is appropriate.
