Findings

This dispute relates to inpatient surgical services provided in a hospital setting with reimbursement subject to the provisions of Division rule at 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401, titled Acute Care Inpatient Hospital Fee Guideline, effective August 1, 1997, 22 Texas Register 6264. The Third Court of Appeals' November 13, 2008 opinion in Texas Mutual Insurance Company v. Vista Community Medical Center, LLP, 275 South Western Reporter Third 538, 550 (Texas Appeals – Austin 2008, petition denied) addressed a challenge to the interpretation of 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401. The Court concluded that “to be eligible for reimbursement under the Stop-Loss Exception, a hospital must demonstrate that the total audited charges exceed $40,000 and that an admission involved unusually costly and unusually extensive services.” Both the requestor and respondent in this dispute were given an opportunity to supplement the original MDR submissions after the 3rd Court of Appeals Decision. Only the requestor submitted a supplemental position as noted above. This Position was exchanged among the parties as appropriate. Documentation filed by the requestor and respondent to date is considered in determining whether the admission in dispute is eligible for reimbursement under the stop-loss method of payment. Consistent with the Third Court of Appeals’ November 13, 2008 opinion, the Division will address whether the total audited charges in this case exceed $40,000; whether the admission and disputed services in this case are unusually extensive; and whether the admission and disputed services in this case are unusually costly. 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(2)(C) states, in pertinent part, that “Independent reimbursement is allowed on a case-by-case basis if the particular case exceeds the stop-loss threshold...” In that same opinion, the Third Court of Appeals states that the stop loss exception “...was meant to apply on a case-by-case basis in relatively few cases.” 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(6) puts forth the requirements to meet the three factors that will be discussed.

1. The requestor in its position statement asserts that, “The Carrier did not provide a proper explanation in conjunction with the ‘F’ payment exception code as required by the TWCC Rules and Commission instructions. Therefore, the Carrier has made no legal denial of reimbursement under the applicable rules and statutes.” 28 Texas Administrative Code §133.304(c), 17 Texas Register 1105, effective February 20, 1992, applicable to dates of service in dispute, states, in pertinent part, that “At the time an insurance carrier makes payment or denies payment on a medical bill, the insurance carrier shall send, in the form and manner prescribed by the Commission, the explanation of benefits to the appropriate parties. The explanation of benefits shall include the correct payment exception codes required by the Commission's instructions, and shall provide sufficient explanation to allow the sender to understand the reason(s) for the insurance carrier's action(s). A generic statement that simply states a conclusion such as ‘not sufficiently documented’ or other similar phrases with no further description of the reason for the reduction or denial of payment does not satisfy the requirements of this section.” Review of the submitted documentation finds that the explanation of benefits were issued using the Division-approved form TWCC 62 and noted payment exception codes “F, Z695, Z585 and Z560.”

These payment exception codes and descriptions support an explanation for the reduction of reimbursement based on former 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401. These reasons support a reduction of the reimbursement amount from the requested stop-loss exception payment reimbursement methodology to the standard per diem methodology amount and provided sufficient explanation to allow the provider to understand the reason(s) for the insurance carrier's action(s). The Division therefore concludes that the insurance carrier has substantially met the requirements of 28 Texas Administrative Code §133.304(c).

2. 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(6)(A)(i) states, “to be eligible for stop-loss payment the total audited charges for a hospital admission must exceed $40,000, the minimum stop-loss threshold.” Furthermore, 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(6)(A)(v) states that “Audited charges are those charges which remain after a bill review by the insurance carrier has been performed.” Review of the explanation of benefits issued by the respondent finds that the carrier did not deduct any charges in accordance with §134.401(c)(6)(A)(v); therefore the audited charges equal $43,169.02. The Division concludes that the total audited charges exceed $40,000.00.
3. 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(2)(C) allows for payment under the stop-loss exception on a case-by-case basis only if the particular case exceeds the stop-loss threshold as described in paragraph (6). Paragraph (6)(A)(ii) states that “This stop-loss threshold is established to ensure compensation for unusually extensive services required during an admission.” The Third Court of Appeals’ November 13, 2008 opinion states that “to be eligible for reimbursement under the Stop-Loss Exception, a hospital must demonstrate that the total audited charges exceed $40,000 and that an admission involved...unusually extensive services” and further states that “independent reimbursement under the Stop-Loss Exception was meant to apply on a case-by-case basis in relatively few cases.” In its position, the requestor states:

The medical records on file with MDR show this admission to be a complex revision of a hip replacement. This complex surgery is unusually extensive for at least the following reasons: This type of surgery is unusually extensive when compared to all workers' compensation admissions between 2001 and 2008 which totaled 68,775, which is based on data received from DWC through a Deposition on Written Questions. It is unusually extensive in that only 0% of the total admissions were for a revision of a hip replacement with a principle procedure code of 81.55 such as the surgery performed in this case; This procedure has a Medicare Severity Diagnostic Related Group (MS-DRG) of 209 which has a relative weight of 2.0782. This relative weight is 41% higher than the average relative weight of all DRG's for fiscal year 2002, the date this procedure was performed, and is 58% higher than all Major Diagnostic Category (MDC) 08 DRG's for the same fiscal year; This procedure has a relative weight that is 52% higher than the average Case Mix Index (CMI) for similar hospitals in Harris County where this procedure was performed; This type of surgery required a cell saver, additional, trained nursing staff and specialized equipment thereby making the hospital services unusually extensive; And, this type of surgery has a high likelihood of bleeding requiring monitoring of the patient's hemoglobin to make sure patient is not anemic; a high probability of a blood clot causing pulmonary embolism and is difficult to control pain.

The Division considered the requestor's position summaries regarding the unusually extensive services involved in this hospital admission, and if it qualifies for stop-loss reimbursement per 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(6). Per the Third Court of Appeals' November 13, 2008, decision "to be eligible for reimbursement under the Stop-Loss Exception, a hospital must demonstrate that the total audited charges exceed $40,000 and that an admission involved unusually costly and unusually extensive services." In that same opinion, the Third Court of Appeals states that the stop loss exception "...was meant to apply on a case-by-case basis in relatively few cases." The Division reviewed the requestor's position summary and submitted documentation and finds the following:

- The requestor indicated that because 0% of the total workers' compensation admissions between 2001 and 2008 were for a revision of a hip replacement, this admission involved unusually extensive services. The requestor's categorization of hip replacement surgeries presupposes that all hip replacement surgeries are unusually extensive. The Third Court of Appeal's decision noted that stop-loss reimbursement is meant to apply on a case-by-case basis. The requestor did not submit case specific information to support how the services in dispute were unusually extensive in relation to similar admissions.
- The requestor uses Medicare's MS-DRG and relative weights to support their argument that the disputed services involved an unusually extensive hospital stay. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) began using a new diagnosis-related groups (DRG) system called Medicare Severity (MS) on October 1, 2007; therefore, the requestor's argument is based on a system that did not exist on the disputed date of service.
- The requestor also noted that the admission was unusually extensive because the procedure's relative weight is 52% higher in comparison to the average CMI for similar hospitals in Harris County. The Division reviewed the submitted documentation and finds no documentation to support the requestor's position regarding the study to support its position.
- The requestor relies upon Medicare's outlier threshold policy as its method to establish that the admission in dispute is unusually extensive. The Medicare policy that the requestor relies on may be found at Section 1886(d)(5)(A) of the Federal Social Security Act and in the Medicare Claims Processing Manual, CMS Publication 100-04, Chapter 3 found at www.cms.gov. According to this policy, admissions for which a hospital incurs extraordinarily high costs may qualify for payments in addition to the basic Inpatient Prospective Payment System (IPPS) payment. In order to qualify for a so-called "outlier payment" the cost to the hospital for a specific admission must exceed a fixed cost outlier threshold amount. Factors which affect the calculation of the fixed cost outlier threshold amount may change and are updated annually as part of the Inpatient Prospective Payment System (IPPS) final rule, or when relevant, final rules are implemented in Medicare. The requestor attempts to support its position that the services in dispute are unusually extensive by presuming that the admission in dispute would have qualified for a Medicare outlier payment; however, the requestor failed to present the factors and the calculation method to support its contention.

The presumption that the service in dispute would have qualified for an outlier payment at the time the services were rendered is therefore unsupported.

- The requestor noted that the hospital admission required additional staff and specialized equipment thereby making the hospital services unusually extensive. A review of the submitted documentation finds that the requestor did not support that additional staff and specialized equipment were needed in comparison to similar surgeries.

For the reasons stated, the Division finds that the requestor has not demonstrated nor supported their position that the services in dispute involved unusually extensive services in relation to similar admissions.

4. In regards to whether the services were unusually costly, the Third Court of Appeals' November 13, 2008 opinion concluded that in order to be eligible for reimbursement under the stop-loss exception, a hospital must demonstrate that an admission involved unusually costly services. 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(6) states that "Stop-loss is an independent reimbursement methodology established to ensure fair and reasonable compensation to the hospital for unusually costly services rendered during treatment to an injured worker." The requestor's supplemental position statement asserts that:

The medical and billing records on file with MDR also show that this admission was unusually costly for at least the following reasons: The median charge for all workers' compensation inpatient surgeries is $23,187; the median charge for workers' compensation surgeries of this type is $39,000; therefore the audited billed charges for this surgery substantially exceed not only the median charges, but also the $40,000 stop-loss threshold; As mentioned in the preceding paragraph, in order for this surgery to be performed, specialized equipment such as large bore IV's and an arterial line and specially trained, extra nursing staff were required, thereby adding substantially to the cost of surgery in comparison to other types of surgeries and; It was necessary to purchase expensive implants for use in the surgery.

The requestor asserts that because the billed charges exceed the stop-loss threshold, the admission in this case is unusually costly. The Division notes that audited charges are addressed as a separate and distinct factor described in 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(6)(A)(i). Billed charges for services do not represent the cost of providing those services, and no such relation has been established in the instant case. The requestor fails to demonstrate that the costs associated with the services in dispute are unusual when compared to similar surgery services or admissions. For that reason, the Division rejects the requestor's position that the admission is unusually costly based on the mere fact that the billed or audited charges "substantially" exceed $40,000. The requestor additionally asserts that certain resources that are used for the types of surgeries associated with the admission in dispute (i.e. specialized equipment and specially-trained, extra nursing staff) added substantially to the cost of the admission. The requestor does not list or quantify the costs associated with these resources in relation to the disputed services, nor does the requestor provide documentation to support a reasonable comparison between the resources required for similar surgery services or admissions. Therefore, the requestor fails to demonstrate that the resources used in this particular admission are unusually costly when compared to similar surgery services or admissions.

5. For the reasons stated above, the services in dispute are not eligible for the stop-loss method of reimbursement. Consequently, reimbursement shall be calculated pursuant to 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(1) subtitled Standard Per Diem Amount and §134.401(c)(4) subtitled Additional Reimbursements. The Division notes that additional reimbursements under §134.401(c)(4) apply only to bills that do not reach the stop-loss threshold described in subsection (c)(6) of this section.
- Division rule at 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(3)(ii) states, in pertinent part, that "The applicable Workers' Compensation Standard Per Diem Amount (SPDA) is multiplied by the length of stay (LOS) for admission..." Review of the submitted documentation finds that the length of stay for this admission was three (3) surgical days; therefore, the standard per diem amounts of $1,118.00 multiplied by the 3 days result in a total allowable amount of $3,354.00.
  - 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(4)(A), states "When medically necessary the following services indicated by revenue codes shall be reimbursed at cost to the hospital plus 10%: (i) Implantables (revenue codes 275, 276, and 278), and (ii) Orthotics and prosthetics (revenue code 274)."

- A review of the submitted medical bill indicates that the requestor billed revenue code 278 for Implants at $6,719.00.
  - Review of the medical documentation provided finds that although the requestor billed items under revenue code 278, no invoices were found to support the cost of the implantables billed. For that reason, no additional reimbursement can be recommended.
  - 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(4)(C) states “Pharmaceuticals administered during the admission and greater than $250 charged per dose shall be reimbursed at cost to the hospital plus 10%. Dose is the amount of a drug or other substance to be administered at one time.” A review of the submitted itemized statement finds that the requestor billed $1,597.10/unit for Tobramycin 1.2 gm pow. The requestor did not submit documentation to support what the cost to the hospital was for this pharmaceutical. For that reason, additional reimbursement for this item cannot be recommended.
6. In its response to the request for medical fee dispute resolution, the insurance carrier and respondent in this dispute requested “Carrier requests an Order of Reimbursement for any payment previously made over the amount calculated under the methods described in the above referenced SOAH decisions.” Former 28 Texas Administrative Code §133.304(p), 17 Texas Register 1105, effective February 20, 1992, provided, in pertinent part, that “An insurance carrier may request medical dispute resolution in accordance with §133.305 if... the insurance carrier has requested a refund under this section, and the health care provider: (1) failed to make payment by the 60th day after the date the insurance carrier sent the request for refund...” Former 28 Texas Administrative Code §133.305(a)(2)(C), 27 Texas Register 12282, effective January 1, 2003, provided that “a carrier dispute of a health care provider reduction or denial of the carrier request for refund of payment for health care previously paid by the carrier (refund request dispute)” can be a medical fee dispute. Former 28 Texas Administrative Code §133.307(b)(3), 27 Texas Register 12282, effective January 1, 2003, specified that “The carrier... in a dispute involving a carrier's refund request” may be a requestor in a medical fee dispute. Section 133.307(e) required that “...carrier requests for medical dispute resolution shall be made in the form, format, and manner prescribed by the commission.” Section 133.307(e)(2)(B) required that the request shall include “a copy of each... response to the refund request relevant to the fee dispute...” The Division finds that the insurance carrier’s position statement in response to the health care provider’s request for medical fee dispute resolution does not constitute a request for refund request dispute resolution in the form and manner required by former applicable version of 28 Texas Administrative Code §133.307. Furthermore, no documentation was found to support that the insurance carrier ever presented a refund request to the health care provider to support its burden of proof for a specific refund amount in accordance with §133.304(p). The Division concludes that the insurance carrier has not met the requirements of §133.304(p) or §133.307(e). For these reasons, the respondent’s request for a refund is not proper, and is not supported. An order of reimbursement for the respondent is therefore not recommended.

The Division concludes that the total allowable for this admission is $3,354.00. The respondent issued payment in the amount of $6,713.50. Based upon the documentation submitted, no additional reimbursement can be recommended.

Conclusion

The submitted documentation does not support the reimbursement amount sought by the requestor. The requestor in this case demonstrated that the audited charges exceed $40,000, but failed to demonstrate that the disputed inpatient hospital admission involved unusually extensive services, and failed to demonstrate that the services in dispute were unusually costly. Consequently, 28 Texas Administrative Code §134.401(c)(1) titled Standard Per Diem Amount, and §134.401(c)(4) titled Additional Reimbursements are applied and result in no additional reimbursement.

ORDER

Based upon the documentation submitted by the parties and in accordance with the provisions of Texas Labor Code §413.031, the Division has determined that the requestor is entitled to $0.00 reimbursement for the disputed services.
