Clinical History

This patient injured his back and neck while loading a trailer at work on ____. He has had epidural steroid injections, nerve blocks, and a facet injection. He has also undergone 20 DRX treatments for spinal decompression.

Requested Service(s)

Lumbar discogram

Decision

It is determined that the proposed lumbar discogram is medically necessary to treat this patient's condition.

Rationale/Basis for Decision

This patient received minimal relief from the epidural steroid injections and office and home physical therapy. A lumbar discogram is needed in this case to make a determination of his ongoing pain and radicular complaints. The results of this procedure will help direct further treatment. Therefore, it is determined that the proposed lumbar discogram is medically necessary.

This decision by the IRO is deemed to be a TWCC decision and order.
