An independent review of the above-referenced case has been completed by a medical physician board certified in physical medicine and rehabilitation. The appropriateness of setting and medical necessity of proposed or rendered services is determined by the application of medical screening criteria published by ___ or by the application of medical screening criteria and protocols formally established by practicing physicians. All available clinical information, the medical necessity guidelines and the special circumstances of said case was considered in making the determination.

The independent review determination and reasons for the determination, including the clinical basis for the determination, is as follows:

See Attached Physician Determination

___ hereby certifies that the reviewing physician is on Texas Workers' Compensation Commission Approved Doctor List (ADL). Additionally, said physician has certified that no known conflicts of interest exist between him and any of the treating physicians or providers or any of the physicians or providers who reviewed the case for determination prior to referral to ___.

CLINICAL HISTORY

44-year-old male with history of epicondylitis and cervical radiculitis/opathy after ___ rear-end car collision while at work. He underwent extensive electrodiagnostic evaluation and C8 radiculopathy was confirmed in May 2003. He has also undergone MRI of the neck showing spondylosis, by report.

REQUESTED SERVICE (S)

Cervical epidural steroid injection

DECISION

Approve. Reverse previous denial.

RATIONALE/BASIS FOR DECISION

Although the patient's pain is wide spread, there is a clear radicular component, the primary indication for epidural steroid injection. According to numerous uncontrolled trials, epidural steroid injections are an accepted treatment for radicular pain. In these studies, 33-77% of injected patients report relief from pain.
