

Biography

Martin B. Jones, M.D.

Dr. Martin Jones received his Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Oregon. He earned his medical degree at the Oregon Health Sciences University, and completed his Family Practice residency in Merced, California. He is board certified by the American Board of Family Medicine and is a Fellow of the American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine.

He has served as a Designated Doctor for the Division of Workers' Compensation since 2000 and has been a speaker for the designated doctor certification training course on topics including Extent of Injury, Return to Work and Non-Musculoskeletal impairment ratings. He has taught designated doctor workshops on Core Competencies, and Extent of Injury. He has also served as a subject matter expert in developing and updating the Certification Examination for Designated Doctors. He is also a member of the Medical Quality Review Panel and has served as an Arbiter. He was involved in the development, training and review processes for the Division's most recent Performance Based Oversight assessment involving proper completion of the DWC-73 work status form.

Dr. Jones is currently the National Chief Medical Officer for HCA Healthcare's Urgent Care service line with over 250 urgent care clinics in 12 states.